

How Kathleen Kennedy and the elites stole art.

Once upon a time in a galaxy not so far away, there was a festive spirit in the air as Christmas approached. The Star Wars universe, beloved by fans for decades, was a source of joy and inspiration. However, there were whispers among the fans about a shadowy figure named Toxic Kathleen Kennedy, who was said to have stolen Star Wars from its true devotees.

The story begins in a small town on Earth, where a group of passionate Star Wars fans gathered to celebrate the holidays. The town was adorned with lightsabers, Wookiee carolers, and festive droids. Families came together to watch the classic Star Wars films and share their love for the epic saga.

In this enchanted town, there lived a young fan named Alex who was particularly passionate about Star Wars. Alex had grown up immersed in the adventures of Luke Skywalker, Princess Leia, and Han Solo. The magic of the Force had captured Alex's heart, and Star Wars had become an integral part of every holiday season.

However, the joyous atmosphere was disrupted by rumors spreading through the town. Whispers of Toxic Kathleen Kennedy's influence echoed through the Star Wars community, as fans accused her of stealing the beloved franchise.

Alex was curious and decided to investigate. As the town prepared for its annual Christmas parade, Alex embarked on a journey to uncover the horrors of Kathleen Kennedy's pandering to crazy twitter freaks. Kathleen arrived and said, Kennedy: I have at last used the pander stone to take and divide the fandom for money and power Disney that old mans legacy is dead may he look down upon the fallen stocks of his company the holidays are at last ruined no one no thing will have fun or joy all eyes on me. Alex: The fandoms will not take this we will come to gather as the people once more art is for the people made by the people.

Kennedy: you fool I will through buss words at you all if you deny me.

Alex. That won't stop the voice of the people.

And with that Kathleen Kennedy's evil was over as we come to gather Marry Christmas to all. "Art is for all" "Art is for the people made by the people" "elitism stops the people from making art and telling are stories. " "reject the elites gate keeping art and education from the people and manufactured divisions and war war is not peace."
